

GOP Party Leader In Senate
 Styles Bridges,
 63, Dies In Sleep

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, senior Republican member of the Senate, died in his sleep early Sunday.
 Bridges was chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and was his party's top representative on the powerful Appropriations Committee. He was second-ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, having yielded top position to Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts.
 The senator, who rose from farm boy to one of the most influential men in the nation, had been in ill health.
 A statement by his aides said: "Sen. Bridges died peacefully in his sleep at 5 a.m. in his Concord, N.H., home by complications arising from a severe coronary attack suffered Sept. 20."
 He suffered severe pulmonary congestion in Washington, D.C., Aug. 18. Almost a month later, Sept. 20, he was taken to the Concord hospital with a severe heart attack. He was discharged Nov. 3 and returned home for a period of convalescence.
 Both former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and President Kennedy sent messages of condolence to Mrs. Bridges. Kennedy in a statement issued later described Bridges "as a great patriot who devoted his life to the continuing strength of our country."
 His death marked the second congressional leader to die within 10 days—Sam Rayburn, speaker of the House, died Nov. 16.
 Bridges was a power in the Republican party almost from the day he entered the Senate in 1937. When the GOP controlled congress, Bridges was chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee.
 His death raises the question of who will be appointed to succeed him until the New Hampshire elections in 1962 when the winner will complete the balance of Bridge's term that expires in 1966.
 The most frequently mentioned successor is Republican Gov. Wesley Powell. But there also have been reports that Bridges' widow might get the appointment.
 Bridges was the Senate's senior Republican and since 1952 had served as chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee.
 Bridges was friend and confidant of Republican and Democratic presidents alike. He described himself as a "middle-of-the-roader" but was generally regarded as one of the nation's most articulate spokesmen for the conservative point of view.

Wisp Of Smoke
 Gives New Hope

MERAUKE, Dutch New Guinea (AP)—A wisp of smoke rising from the jungles of New Guinea's wild southern coast was spotted by a search plane Sunday, reviving hopes that Michael Rockefeller is alive.
 A cruising Royal Australian Air Force plane sighted the smoke in the area where Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's youngest son vanished a week ago.
 When the news reached this jungle search headquarters, the governor immediately asked that helicopters be rushed to the region.
 The smoke rose near a small village south of the Eilanden River, in whose mouth the 23-year-old Rockefeller's expedition in search of primitive art ran into disaster.
 Almost Certain
 Heightening hopes that Michael made it to land after his native craft capsized was the finding of a gasoline can like one he used in trying to swim 3 1/2 miles to shore.
 "I'm 90 per cent certain it was the can Mike used," said Dr. R. S. Wassing, young Rockefeller's Dutch companion, who stayed with the capsized craft and later was rescued. "But of course I cannot guarantee it was."
 The six-gallon, red gasoline can was flown here for Wassing to identify after being picked up off the coast of Fredrik Hendrik Island, about 120 miles from the scene of the capsizing.
 One Dutch search official said if the can had been found earlier it would have indicated young Rockefeller drowned "but now it looks as if he made it to shore and the can was carried away by a high tide."
 Other veterans of the New Guinea wilds were less optimistic.

Gov. Rockefeller himself, even before the news of the smoke sighting reached him, had described the finding of the can as "a good omen."
 Still A Chance
 The governor said Saturday he and his daughter, Mary Rockefeller Strawbridge, Michael's twin would extend their stay hoping "there's a chance he is in some interior village." The governor earlier had planned to head for home Sunday.
 "So long as there is a real hope that there is a chance of finding him, I'd like to be here," he said.
 "It's possible that he might have gotten to shore."
 It was the first time since his arrival at Merauke that Rockefeller looked as if he really believed there is a hope that Michael survived the swim through shark-infested waters.
 Rockefeller thanked Dutch authorities for supplying planes, boats, and men for the long search and expressed his gratitude to Australia for sending two air force helicopters.
 Rockefeller told reporters he turned down President Kennedy's offer to send a carrier equipped with helicopters because it would take too long to get here.

Occupation Right
 'Lost' Say Reds

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany warned the Western powers Sunday any attempt to write a settlement of the Berlin crisis based on retaining their occupation rights is doomed.
 The unyielding statement from East German Communist chief Walter Ulbricht came as Western leaders strove to find a common ground for negotiating with the Soviet Union on divided Berlin and Germany.
 Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin declared he had the impression the West "has come a bit nearer to a common negotiation basis" on Berlin since President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met last week.
 "I hope that in a foreseeable time we will have progressed so far as to know if and when

D. Eisenhower and President Kennedy sent messages of condolence to Mrs. Bridges. Kennedy in a statement issued later described Bridges "as a great patriot who devoted his life to the continuing strength of our country."
 Second One
 His death marked the second congressional leader to die within 10 days—Sam Rayburn, speaker of the House, died Nov. 16.
 Bridges was a power in the Republican party almost from the day he entered the Senate in 1937. When the GOP controlled congress, Bridges was chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee.
 His death raises the question of who will be appointed to succeed him until the New Hampshire elections in 1962 when the winner will complete the balance of Bridge's term that expires in 1966.
 The most frequently mentioned successor is Republican Gov. Wesley Powell. But there also have been reports that Bridges' widow might get the appointment.
 Bridges was the Senate's senior Republican and since 1952 had served as chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee.
 Bridges was friend and confidant of Republican and Democratic presidents alike. He described himself as a "middle-of-the-roader" but was generally regarded as one of the nation's most articulate spokesmen for the conservative point of view.

Successful Career
 During a long and successful political career that he started as a local checker of voting lists, Bridges never lost an election.
 He broke most of the state's voting records and the 173,521 votes he received in winning his fifth Senate term last year, was the biggest total ever given to any state office in New Hampshire.
 An outspoken opponent of communism, Bridges never minced words.
 In August, a few days before he was hospitalized with congestion of both lungs, Bridges demanded a Senate investigation of a Defense Department directive which the senator claimed "muzzied" military officers from speaking out on Communist infiltration and foreign policy matters.
 He was born and raised on a small farm in West Pembroke, Maine. When Bridges was 9, his father died and the future senator spent most of his time on the farm plowing the land and milking cows to help his mother and her two younger children.
 Bridges worked his way through the University of Maine, earning 15 cents an hour in dairy barns.
 After teaching agriculture at an academy in Ashfield, Mass., Bridges moved to New Hampshire where he became a member of the University of New Hampshire's agricultural extension staff.
 He served as a secretary to Gov. Robert P. Bass and was appointed to the State Public Service Commission by Gov. Charles W. Tobey, with whom he later served in the Senate.
 Bridges became New Hampshire's and the nation's youngest governor in 1954 when, at the age of 36, he ignored the advice of some GOP leaders and sought the chief executive's seat in the State of New Hampshire, Maine.

The holiday period for tabulating purposes began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.
 The Thanksgiving holiday weekend in 1960, claimed 442 lives in traffic accidents. Fifty-one died in fires and 106 were killed in miscellaneous accidents during that holiday period.
 The traffic toll has shown a slight decline for Thanksgiving holidays over the past few years. In 1958, 454 persons died in traffic and in 1959 the traffic toll was 445.
 The National Safety Council did not estimate a traffic toll during the holiday. It said deaths for nonholiday weekend of 102 hours this season would be 450.
 The Associated Press survey of traffic deaths for the 102-hour nonholiday period from 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 8, to midnight Sunday, Nov. 12, showed 462 traffic deaths. The survey showed 37 killed in fires and 106 miscellaneous mishaps, for an overall total of 665.
 The worst traffic record for any holiday period was set during the four-day Christmas weekend in 1956 when 706 persons died in automobile accidents.
 The record over-all death toll was set during the four-day Independence Day period this year when 924 persons died.

Death Leaves
 A Gap In GOP
 Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death Sunday of Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire leaves a gap in the Senate Republican leadership that may bring on a liberal-conservative party scrap when Congress reconvenes in January.
 Bridges' death is not likely to upset the present partisan lineup in the Senate since New Hampshire's Republican governor is expected to appoint another Republican to the seat and hold the count at 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans.
 Bridges, who was first elected to the Senate in 1936, and who outranked all his GOP colleagues in length of service, was chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.
 In this post, along with Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, top GOP floor leader, and Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, Mass., chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, Bridges was one of the triumvirate of party leaders in the Senate.

 The latest count shows 417 persons died in traffic accidents, 35 lost their lives in fires and 88 others were killed in miscellaneous holiday-related accidents. The total of holiday deaths reached 540.

2 Scranton Youths
 Hurt In Area Crash

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Two youths were injured and two others escaped injury yesterday at 3:30 a.m. when their car failed to negotiate a curve and crashed into a tree.
 The injured were William Cannon, 17, and Patrick Kelper Mulhearn, 16, both of Scranton. Both were taken to the Monroe County General Hospital.
 Cannon was listed in "fair condition" and is being treated for a broken left leg and right shoulder along with minor cuts and bruises.
 Mulhearn is listed in "guarded condition" and is under treatment for a brain concussion, possible fractured skull and minor cuts and bruises.
 Chief of Police Fred Decker of Delaware Water Gap, identified the driver as James Maugieri, 16, of Dunmore. He had his father's car without permission and was driving without an operator's license.
 Another passenger in the car was Frank Resimmoich, 15, of Scranton, who had escaped from St. Michael House of Correction in Scranton recently.
 Is Released
 Maugieri was released in the custody of his parents and Resimmoich was returned to St. Michael's.
 Chief Decker said the accident occurred at the intersection of Route 611 and Alternate Route 611 when the car was being driven in a westerly direction and failed to negotiate the curve. He gave no estimate of damage to the car.

Killer Stabs To Death
 Mineola Family Of Five

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — A vicious, methodical killer ran amok in the modest home of waiter Peter Gregov, stabbing to death Gregov, his wife and their three sons.
 Police sought a relative who recently escaped from a mental hospital. "We want this man out of circulation," said Nassau County Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pennell.
 The bodies were found Sunday, carefully covered with sheets or blankets, in different sections of the 1 1/2 story house. There was no sign of forced entry.
 The father and boys wore slacks and shirts. The mother had on a jacket, indicating she had just come in or was planning to leave the house, Pennell said.
 All the victims, except the father, had their hands tied behind their backs.
 Pennell said autopsies on three of the bodies indicated death occurred between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday.
 Is Sought
 Being sought for questioning was Mate (Mike) Ivanov, 38, Gregov's brother-in-law.
 Ivanov entered the Central Islip State Hospital last June 12, his commitment ordered by the New York Supreme Court in Manhattan because he "had been depressed, upset and threatened suicide," the hospital director said. He escaped Nov. 15.
 The director, Dr. C. J. C. Kennedy, said the 5-foot-9, 200-pound Ivanov had been a "quiet patient, a well-behaved patient," but had not been allowed unsupervised grounds freedom because he was depressed.
 Pennell said the family feared Ivanov because of its role in obtaining the court order committing him to the mental hospital. However, a hospital spokesman told police that Ivanov had no history of violence there.
 Pennell said no motive had been established for the slayings.
 In the house of the victims, police said, they found a telegram from the state hospital informing the Gregovs that Ivanov had escaped.
 Pennell said the Gregovs came here about two years ago from Yugoslavia.

Siberia Phenomena Of 1908
 Blames Blast On Comet

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist said Sunday a comet's head—not a meteorite or an interplanetary atomic weapon—caused the big explosion that jarred Siberia June 30, 1908.
 The blast near the Tunguska River was one of the most spectacular natural phenomena in modern history. It killed 1,500 reindeer, felled trees over an area of 700 square miles and stamped its record on the charts of distant seismographs.
 K. Florensky, chief of a Soviet expedition that studied the area this summer, reported his findings in the Communist youth newspaper Komsomol Pravda. He denied at the outset that "Tungus wonder" was really an atomic weapon fired from some other planet.
 Is Unfounded
 "Not true," Florensky wrote. A thorough inspection of the cratered region, he said, proved all talk about increased radioactivity there is unfounded. The radiation is no greater than elsewhere, he said.
 Standard reference works long have attributed the Tungus blast to an enormous meteorite.
 Meteorites are heavenly bodies made up of elements like the earth. Some are largely iron, some are stone. Some are intermediate stony-irons.
 Prolonged Heat
 There is a close relation between the paths described by meteor showers and the orbits of comets, which consist mainly of frozen gases.
 Florensky expressed belief that if the Tungus wonder had been a meteorite there would have been metal and indications of prolonged heat in the explosion area. These were not found, he said.
 But the frozen gases in the head of a comet, he reasoned, would have melted under friction as it plunged into the atmosphere and set off the tremendous blast near the earth.
 Green boughs on trees that stood from four to six miles from the center were found to have suffered little from burns.
 "This shows that the explosion was not followed by a concentrated emanation of energy," Florensky wrote, "and had nothing in common with an atomic explosion."

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy announced Sunday night the first major shakeup of his high command, including the shifting of Chester Bowles from undersecretary of state to another State Department job.
 The shakeup involved a total of ten shifts, but with no one leaving the administration.
 Announcement of it was read to reporters by Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary.
 Salinger said in advance of the reading he would answer no questions and he adhered to this.
 The statement said Bowles is moving to a new "high policy-making position," details of which will be announced later.
 W. Averell Harriman, presently a world wide trouble shooter for the State Department as an ambassador at large, will become assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.
 George Ball, now undersecretary of state for economic affairs, will become under secretary of state in place of Bowles.
 The statement said the President, "in order to provide a more effective matching of people with responsibilities," had decided to make the changes which involve not only the State Department but his own White House staff.

 Several months ago Bowles was reported on the way out of the undersecretaryship.
 These reports said Kennedy was unhappy with Bowles as the State Department's chief administrative officer and felt his talents lay in diplomacy or policy planning.
 After these reports had gained wide circulation, the White House said he was staying on but did not rule out the possibility of a change later.
 Bowles is a former governor of Connecticut, former U.S. representative and former ambassador to India, who served as chairman of the Rules Committee at the last Democratic National Convention.
 Bowles did not seek re-election to the House in 1960 to be free to devote full time to the Kennedy presidential campaign.

Shot By Companion

Effort Youth, 11
 Killed In Mishap

EFFORT — John Martin, 11, was accidentally shot in the chest yesterday and died twenty minutes later at the office of Dr. John Martucci in Brodheadsville. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Martin.
 Monroe County Coroner Daniel G. Warner said that "death was the result of a gunshot wound from a .22 calibre rifle. The shot hit the boy in the upper chest. The death will be listed as accidental."
 State Police from Fern Ridge, aiding Coroner Warner, in the investigation, said there were three boys shooting pigeons by the barn of the Martin farm.
 Rushed To Hospital
 They identified the boys as George Mittelstaett, 10, Bright Water, L. I. N. Y.; Frank Dorschner, 11, Effort and the victim John Martin.
 Warner said that George Mittelstaett told police John had shot at a bird and missed. He (Mittelstaett) raised his single shot .22 calibre rifle to fire and in so doing it went off, striking the Martin boy.
 Young Martin ran approximately 200 feet from the barn to the house to tell his parents "George shot me."
 The boy was placed in the Mittelstaett car and rushed to the Monroe County General Hospital. On the way, Trooper Edward Pucylowski, Fern Ridge barracks, intercepted them and began to lead them to the hospital.
 They stopped at the office of Dr. Martucci for aid. The doctor was not in. Police noted that the boy was dead and summoned Coroner Warner to the scene.
 Severed Artery
 The accident occurred at 12:30 p.m. and Warner listed time of death at 12:50 p.m. He added that the bullet severed an artery and the boy bled to death.
 The body was released to the Kresge Funeral Home at the request of the boy's parents, Arlington and Amelia Martin.
 He was a member of the Sixth Grade in Pleasant Valley Elementary School, the Sunday school of St. John's Lutheran Church, Effort, a former member of the Cub Scouts. He also was a member of the Safety Patrol of the school.
 In addition to his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Sandra and Wanda.
 Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Kresge Funeral Home, Brodheadsville with the Rev. John Kline officiating.
 Interment will be in the Effort Cemetery.
 Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Tuesday after 7 p.m.

Mechanical Brain Helps
 Santa Do Job

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Santa Claus has a potent new helper, right out of the magic world of science. By report, it can do what even Santa himself can't do—Give the right answers to hopelessly perplexed shoppers who plaid, "What shall I buy?"
 Christmas shopping in the electronic manner gets under way Monday with the introduction at the John Wanamaker midcity store of a computer with a magnetic memory. Or possibly with a festive imagination, as some suggest.
 At any rate, the mechanical brain is intended to lift the sagging spirits of those—and they appear legion—who can't make up their minds.
 A customer need only tell Santa's robot right bower a few pertinent facts to receive, within seconds, a list of gift suggestions picked by the machine from the store's vast stock of merchandise.
 As explained by a man at Wanamaker's, the new wonder age service works this way:
 Master List
 The hesitant shopper first consults the machine's master list of categories, a roster of all the kinds of people who get Christmas presents—the fussy aunt, the hard-to-please in-law, the man or woman in your life, the kid next door, the milkman, the family doctor, the best of friends, the old acquaintance who turns up every holiday-time, even that bugaboo—the person who has everything.
 These people are further classified by age and general area of interest and culture. Each card also embodies a desired price range for gifts.
 Having made the appropriate checkoffs on the card, the shopper hands it over to a "Noel girl"—a traditional Christmas decoration at the store—She does the required punching on the computer keyboard, and the machine goes to work. It makes its selections and types out a list of 10 gift ideas, their prices and where they may be found.

DeG, Macmillan
 End Secret Talk

LONDON (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle conclude a weekend of confidential talks with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Sunday, with his opposition to East-West negotiations on Berlin apparently softened, but not entirely dissolved.
 This was the impression which prevailed as the two men bid farewell to each other at foggy Gatwick Airport. They issued no communiqué on their heavily guarded country house chats. De Gaulle also remained silent when he reached Paris.
 John Russell, chief of the British Foreign Office news department, told newsmen the Macmillan-De Gaulle talks were conducted "in the most friendly, pleasant and intimate atmosphere that you would expect when two old friends meet."
 No Comment
 Russell declined to comment on the substance of their talks saying: "The pattern is, in any case, not complete. There are still some further moves out in the rounds of Western leaders."
 It was learned that Macmillan and De Gaulle regard the talks as useful and that there had been a thorough exploration of the Berlin problem and of Britain's application to join the European Common Market.
 Presumably Macmillan promptly dispatched a report on the outcome of his exchanges with De Gaulle to President Kennedy.

Folk Mass To Be Presented At Christ Church Sunday

By CHARLES M. BRUCH
THE TWENTIETH Century Folk Mass, composed by The Rev. Geoffrey Beaumont in England, will be presented at 8 p.m. Sunday, December 3 in Christ Episcopal Church. The Rev. Charles A. Park will be celebrant.

Cantor for the Mass will be Rev. Joseph M. Carr, pastor of Zion Church. He will be supported by a choir of mixed voices drawn from the community. Richard Matlock, Christ Church organist is in charge of music. The instrumental music will be supplied by an electric organ, drums and a base viol.

Written in modern music idiom, the Folk Mass is truly a service for the people to sing. The presentation here is open to the public and is presented to residents of the Stroudsburgs so they may have an opportunity of hearing an example of what the church is doing to bring Liturgy up to date musically.

Perhaps the Folk Mass has suffered at the hands of the press which has called it the "Jazz Mass." It is not jazz and indeed might be a more lasting type of music if it were true jazz. Father Beaumont, rather than writing a jazz Mass has drawn on contemporary themes and stitched them into the Mass Form. He has written a Folk Mass of the 10th Century drawing upon the melodic themes and tempos that all of us know.

The folk music of 20th Century England and America is the music we hear on the radio, TV, and in the background of our motion pictures. Since Father Beaumont uses these themes in his work, we are immediately able to sing his Mass without previous study. It always amazes us to hear the entire congregation join in the singing of the Mass after the choir has begun the first few measures.

Since this composition uses the "popular" idiom, as opposed to true jazz or to pseudo-antique music, it could be vulgar. However, Father Beaumont has avoided the sweet and sentimental and thus has produced a Mass of considerable merit.

The "Kyrie" (that great litany of man's eternal cry "Lord have mercy upon us") is set to a Latin rhythm that pulses and makes the words a real plea that seems to come from the depths of man himself. Many listeners like best the "Benedictus Qui Veni" ("Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord.") This particular section has the total effect of a solemn announcement.

This Mass is not "great" music but it is a composition of taste and beauty that enables the untrained parish member to join in the vocal praise of the Lord. As such the choir becomes the vocal leader of the people but it does not do all of the "work." Interestingly enough Father Beaumont has seen fit to use a cantor who "lines-out" the melody. The Church has long employed the Cantor and it could be that this device spans the ages to the time of Christ himself and beyond that for it is known that the Greek tragedies had their chorus leader.

In this "20 Century Folk Mass" we have then the historic Eucharistic form, the historic use of the cantor, and the traditional text used in the Episcopal Church but all with a new fresh sound—a sound that often jolts us into a new appreciation of the action, purpose and meaning of the text. This is as it should be for it is only when the congregation, "work" do we truly "praise the Lord." In this respect it can only be urged that the people of the Stroudsburg area join this congregation of Christ Episcopal Church in the celebration of Father Beaumont's "20 Century" Folk Mass on Sunday, Dec. 3 at 8 p.m.

Join in the "liturgy"—it is impossible not to do so—come, and spiritually offer singing praise and when you return home and hear the radio or TV ponder how much of how little the spirit of the liturgy has entered into your life. If the liturgy is not reflected in TV and radio, perhaps Father Beaumont's Mass which brings radio and TV's influence into the Church, condemns and damns us.

Modern Good Samaritans

The theme chosen by the Monroe County Ministerium in its sponsorship of the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile here on Wednesday of this week is particularly fitting. The story of "The Good Samaritan" has been taught to all of us since our childhood days, but the applications of its principles often escape us. Reviewing the story in the light of the Bloodmobile makes it appropos to modern-day living.

In the original story, the Samaritan helped a man who was a stranger to him, and one to whom he would not ordinarily bear responsibility. Yet, out of compassion for one sorely ill and in need, he delayed his journey to help him. The parable of the story lies in the question of "Who was neighbor to him who fell among thieves?"

The present day simile of the Bloodmobile is quite striking. The persons who will be aided by the life-giving blood that will be donated by Monroe Countians this Wednesday may be strangers to the donors; yet they are their "neighbors" geographically and philosophically. For, if the donations are up to their quota, they will provide blood when it is needed by any resident of Monroe County no matter where he may be at the time of need.

At recent visits of the Bloodmobile, interest seems to have been lacking on the part of potential donors. As a result, the county has been slipping badly on the priority list by not maintaining the assigned quotas. The donation of blood is painless and harmless, and is medically supervised all the way through. When the need arises, the blood is given to the patient without any charge whatsoever on his part. Red Cross blood is always free. There is never any charge by the Red Cross.

Let's all help Monroe County get back into the realm of the "modern Good Samaritan." Be at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church on Wednesday, Nov. 29, between the hours of 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., and, like the Good Samaritan, help your neighbor in need. Some day, you may need such a neighbor yourself!

Opinions Of Other Editors

Board 'Hiding' All Tax

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board has added a new wrinkle in its long list of directives, or "orders" in operation of the state monopoly in the sale of alcoholic beverages.

It has just come to light the board has taken a step to make purchasers at the state stores less "tax conscious" than perhaps they have been. In an order, effective Nov. 1, the board has directed that liquor concerns which advertise their products in newspapers in the state, cannot list their prices and then add "plus tax."

Thus, under this new order they will have to include the state's four per cent sales tax in their advertised price with no mention being made of the added "bite" on the purchaser's pocketbook. Incidentally the current federal tax of $10.50 per gallon of 100 proof liquor and the state's 10 per cent tax already are hidden in the price as displayed on the state shelves.

In contrast to this new liquor Control Board device, there is no ban against any other product sold in the state, through private enterprise of course, being advertised at a price "plus tax." Many items are thus advertised quite regularly, particularly items in the jewelry field, leather goods, to mention a couple, as well as a host of others.

In fact some merchandise is price-advertised with the notation "federal and state taxes additional" or some such phraseology.

So the order of the Liquor Board can only be viewed in the sense that it is attempting to distract the purchaser of its products from the well known fact that its taxing proclivities make the purchase price of its products higher in this state than in most neighboring states, just the same as is milk under another bureaucracy of the Commonwealth.

'Are They Walling Us Out ... Or Sealing Themselves In?'

The Pennsylvania Story

Registered Lobbyist

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—A new species of legislative fish is due to appear on Capitol Hill with the arrival of the next legislative session.

The new species: "Registered Lobbyist." Lobbyists as such are nothing new. Registered lobbyists, insofar as Pennsylvania is concerned, are quite new; so new in fact that they've never even been tossed a line before!

The new breed is the outgrowth of legislative action of the 1961 session earlier this year; a move spawned over the years by a clamor and din for registering those "rank outsiders" whose duty it is to sway legislation—their way.

In years past the clamor and din was little more than a cork repeatedly smacking the water. Of more recent vintage however the clamor and din has grown quite bothersome and sometimes deafening.

The lobbyist scandals in Washington which found some of the more flagrant members of the gentry handing out hotdogs and hamburgers for favors to lawmakers acting on legislation in which they were intensely interested—and as a result creating some rather lush scandals—did nothing to help the lobbyist cause.

In fact and in short, Congress in a parboiled pother and flurry of righteousness and to show the folks back home that their hands were clean, enacted a fairly tough federal lobbyist registration law. Under the federal law lobbyists are not only required to register but also account to proper congressional authorities their spendings for bubblegum, etc.

In any event, this helped spark the crusade for a lobbyist registration law in Pennsylvania.

Over the years the idea was duly kicked around—for home consumption — by lawmakers here on Capitol Hill. It got quite spirited—publicly—at times. The gifts from lobbyists to lawmakers became correspondingly more lavish—12-inch hotdogs, double hamburgers and all that.

Then party platform-makers got carried away and the first thing anyone knew, there in the platforms was a cry for lobbyist registration!

The timing was a little off—from the lobbyist standpoint. By this time some of the blokes were trying to carry out platform plans and making quite a fuss and to-do about it.

Along came the 1961 session and what was there to do but put lobbyist legislation into the hopper. In it went, every one assuming of course that it would lie there and die. However the administration had yapped a little strenuously on the subject, and the only thing to do now (for a good show of face) was to report it out of committee. Of course it would die on the floor of either the House or Senate.

It forgot to. It passed and the Governor had virtually no other choice than to sign it into law. That's what it is now—Act 712.

Thereby was created the new species of legislative fish—the registered lobbyist.

The fish are not left flopping on dry land for the bill was highly watered down during its course of passage. Pennsylvania's registered lobbyists don't even have to report their spendings—and after all, this was what brought about all the clamor and din in the first place!

They must "register" it is true, but so what? There still is no requirement for accounting of their actions or their spending in behalf of their favored legislation!

A—The Veterans Administration during the year ending June 30, 1961, operated 120,580 beds in its 170 hospitals throughout the country.

Q—Could you tell me how many veterans of each of our major wars is still living?

A—As of September 1, 1961, there were 4,450,000 veterans of the Korean Conflict, 15,151,000 veterans of World War II and 2,547,000 veterans of World War I. There are about 31,000 veterans of the Spanish-American War. No Civil War veterans are alive.

Q—What is the Lincoln quotation that the Veterans Administration has adopted as a motto?

A—The quotation, engraved in metal, flanks the entrance of the Veterans Administration's Central Office Building in Washington. It reads: "To care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow, and his orphan." It is from Lincoln's Second Inaugural Address.

Try and Stop Me

Four staid, successful Minneapolis business moguls invested jointly in a hunting lodge deep in the northern woods, and thither they were wont to repair for a fortnight twice a year. "Roughing it is what we want," they would tell their wives. "No hot water, no modern conveniences—and above all, no women!"

One October the four deserted ladies decided to surprise their husbands and followed them to their woodland lair. They were stopped at the gate, however, by a wizened old guide. "You gals better beat it quick if you know what's good for you," he advised. "This time these fellows brought their wives with them!"

Frank Frisch recalls one game with the old Boston Braves in which the Joe Di Maggio had struck out Joe Di Maggio's brother Vince twice. In the ninth inning, Vince came to bat for the third time. After taking two called strikes, he popped a puny foul behind the plate. "Don't catch it!" Dean screamed to the catcher. "Let it drop!"

Manager Frisch stormed out of the dugout, hollering, "What's the big idea?" "I bet a guy ten bucks I'd fan Di Mag three times tonight. This is my last chance."

And then, while Frisch still fumed, Di Maggio a third strike past Di Maggio at the plate and collected his ten spot.

W. C. Fields didn't welcome many friends to his California mansion, but one drinking companion stayed on and on. "Anybody," explained Fields, "who hates dogs and kids the way he does can't possibly be all bad."

The Allen-Scott Report

Backstage Struggle Over House Majority Leader

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — A real donnybrook is shaping up over the next Majority Leader of the House.

For all practical purposes, the Speakership is settled. Representative John McCormack, Mass., now definitely has that in the bag. Every major committee chairman and influential Democrat in the House has come out for him. It appears likely McCormack will be elected Speaker by acclamation.

But the backstage situation on the No. 2 place—Majority Leader—is rapidly becoming a far different story.

Instead of going to the next in line, Democrat Whip Carl Albert, Okla., as was generally expected, a highly uncertain race has developed—that may have a spectacular surprise ending.

Representative Wilbur Mills, Ark., chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, who nominally isn't running for Majority Leader, may wind up with the prize.

Reason for this extraordinary possibility is that the White House and top AFL-CIO leaders have decided to try to put over Representative Richard Bolling, Mo., who was the late Speaker Sam Rayburn's spokesman on the strategic Rules Committee.

Bolling, who boasts that he is a New Dealer, Fair Dealer and New Frontiersman, announced for Majority Leader because of this high-powered backing.

But whether it's enough to put him over is decidedly conjectural.

What may very well happen is that he and Albert will deadlock—and that is where Mills comes in. It's admittedly a long shot, but he has some potent cards in his hand.

Wheels Within Wheels—Spearheading the undercover White House drive for Bolling is Henry Hall Wilson, administrative assistant to President Kennedy.

The President himself is staying out of this party fracas. He personally told Bolling that. The militant Missouri liberal claims the President favors him for Majority Leader, but deems it unwise to take sides.

But his administrative assistant Wilson is busily pulling all the wires he can. From his office in the White House, he is telephoning Democratic representatives throughout the country urging them to line up for Bolling. Without directly invoking the President, Wilson is leaving no doubt Bolling would be most agreeable to him.

One cabinet member also got into this backstage hustle.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, who has displayed exceptional talent for doing the wrong thing at the wrong time, telephoned Western congressmen in behalf of Bolling.

But this wire-pulling was short-circuited quickly.

An Oklahoma colleague of Albert's got wind of Udall's meddling, put in an urgent call to the President and sharply complained.

The President fully agreed the protest was justified, and ordered Udall to desist. So far as is known he has; at least he has made no more long-distance calls for Bolling.

AFL-CIO leaders are organizing an all-out drive for him. They are telling state and local union chiefs to pressure their congressmen for Bolling. The laborites also are contacting other groups to draw their weight behind the Missourian.

Bolling has one of the best pro-labor voting records in Congress, and AFL-CIO leaders are making the most of that to rally backing for him.

While Representative Mills is saying nothing publicly about being interested in the Majority Leadership, he is passing up no chances to get it. He, too, is doing considerable telephoning.

Although a Southerner and opposed to civil rights legislation, the able and popular Arkansas has more cards in his hand than may be apparent.

He is chairman of the potent Ways and Means Committee, which will have jurisdiction over major measures of the President's coming legislative program—notably his bill for medical care for the aged under social security. As a result, the White House will be extremely wary about putting any stumbling blocks in Mills' path—much as the Administration might like to.

Mills also is head of the Democratic Committee on Committees, which decides committee assignments for the party. Obviously, quite a number of his colleagues will be wary about antagonizing him if he asks them for their vote in the event Albert and Bolling deadlock.

This backstage situation is very fluid, and most anything can happen.

Representative Albert is fully aware he has a tough fight and is going at it hot and heavy. Bolling knows he has high hurdles to overcome, but is counting heavily on White House and labor backing. He is making much of the fact that three of the President's closest friends in the House are supporting him.

They are Representatives Frank Thompson, N.J., Edward Boland, Mass., and Torbert MacDonald, Mass. The latter two will nominate Bolling in the Democratic caucus that meets early in January.

Mills is waiting and watching for his big chance—and astutely preparing to grab it if it develops.

Inside You And Yours

Nervous Reflectors

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

What brings on nervous breakdowns?

Everyday failure and frustration magnified into giant mental monsters!

You lose your wallet, miss your bus and bruise your ankle. Your wife screams about your working late. Your boss fumes about your quitting early.

Like a radar reflector, a well-rounded personality bounces back all this stress with no trouble. But a warped personality distorts and magnifies everything like a disfiguring carnival mirror.

Each new baby starts out calm and quiet or screaming and kicking. Everything that happens molds this clay-like raw material into personality. Squeezed by hunger pains when one feeding was forgotten, you may have kicked and bruised your ankle.

Cause And Effect

After stern toilet training, you felt obliged to hold everything in. Now, losing your wallet seems shameful.

Loved only when you were letter-perfect, your screaming wife and fuming boss shake your confidence. You feel alone, unloved and confused. How can you please both?

You can't understand why little things upset you. They just do. You don't remember those early experiences which molded your personality.

A nervous breakdown explodes when an uneven personality burns enough magnified tension deep into your mind. Satisfying happiness goes up in flames. Unable to carry on, you feel like giving up.

Help Needed

You need help. First, to learn how strong you really are. Any mind can be fireproof.

Next, talk out your troubles and tensions with your doctor, clergyman, or some non-critical, open-minded, close-mouthed friend. Tranquilizers and pep pills may help temporarily until talking uncovers the trouble behind the trouble.

Follows Your Lead

Your child models his personality after yours. Faith, love and happiness are essential ingredients, but you don't have to be a Jolly Polly all the time. Relax — and moan and groan when nerves feel frazzled.

You can't expect to mold a rounded emotional reflector with stiff, unbending attitudes.

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Man Playing The Typewriter

"The Will Rogers Book" by Paula McSpadden Love includes three of his gems which are appropriate today. To wit: "You in America" (the 6 Months after Pearl Harbor) exposes stunning high-level hysteria; One Washington official pleaded with FDR to pull U. S. defenses back to the Rocky Mountains . . . Rudy Vallee is the cucumber-type. No jitters, stage-fright or butterflies even on opening nights.

The Satetop's article on the television industry included the most disheartening comment about it: A tv bigwig's confession: "We are all ciphers. Faceless men. All frightened to death" . . . Pattycakes to CBS for its Circle Theater theme: A fine dramatized study of a phony fund-raiser. A genuine public service . . . Even while strolling into a restaurant Joan Crawford personifies glama. Always beautifully groomed—and her manner is regal . . . Rosalind Russell was named after an excursion boat on which her parents celebrated their 5th Ann'y . . . Rita Moreno of "West Side Story" is one of the few Hollywooders whose interviews make sense. An articulate girl who tells all. Including her 4 years of analysis . . . Why Sir Laurence Olivier scolds Method actors: Years ago Lee Strasberg (the Method Rajah) publicly blasted one of Olivier's performances.

Johnny Mathis' staff is unhappy about Pageant mag's article in which the recording star is quoted about race problems. The author of the piece is now persona non grata with the Mathis staff. They instructed that Mathis was not to be quoted on the subject.

The Skeptical Prof

Professor William T. R. Fox of Columbia University is not very different from a great many others who take a doctrinaire view of liberty. However, the Communist Party has now been finally outlawed by the Supreme Court. The members of the Party must be made known to the Department of Justice.

There is a fine of $10,000 and the possibility of a jail sentence of five years for every day that the officers fail to register the Party. Therefore, a meeting held to denounce outlaws is correct in any community.

However, Professor Fox disagrees. He objects to an anti-Communist meeting in Greenwich, Connecticut, where he lives. The Professor said:

"There are good ways and bad ways of fighting Communism. There is the bad way of setting neighbor against neighbor and sowing dissension, as Archbishop William E. Cousins of Milwaukee reported to his fellow Catholic Bishops only this week."

This is all true. There are good ways and bad ways of doing everything, as all parents sooner or later tell their children. The Professor, I am sure, did not do deep research on the subject, to reach this profound conclusion.

However, it would have been better had he described in detail the good way of fighting Communism without holding a meeting to discuss the subject. How does one fight a plague without discovering that there is a plague?

The Professor apparently feels that an anti-Communist meeting in Greenwich will turn neighbor against neighbor. The poor dears are apparently to be protected against reaching a conclusion that a member of the Communist Party is not a good citizen. However, the Supreme Court has reached that conclusion and Attorney General Robert Kennedy says that he will enforce the law. Therefore, why may not citizens hold a meeting to discuss what it is all about?

Of course, if in the process of holding such a meeting, someone takes a shillelagh and busts someone else's head open, that would be assault and battery and a crime unto itself, but it cannot possibly be a crime for citizens to foregather to discuss a political or social or economic question,

I do not question Professor Fox's wisdom that it is preferable not to discuss public questions and to be dumb in order to avoid giving offense.

But as one who jollily gives offense on most occasions, I must say that silence in the presence of a traitor or an enemy or a fool is intolerable and that I will have none of it, even if very polite folks regard me as a boor. The time has come to speak up in this country, and speak many of us shall—now that the Supreme Court has led the way.

It is too bad that it has taken so long, but the enemy within has now been pointed out to us and if his presence becomes obnoxious, call a cop!

although it may be inconvenient for some who fail to recognize that freedom of speech does not consist merely in saying Amen.

It used to be, in this country, that discussion was welcomed; that citizens sat about the cracker-barrel in the general store listening to the wisdom of their neighbors and arguing points. It was a peaceful world then when men and women freely differed on all questions and remained friendly relatives despite their differences.

It was a time when no one was afraid of disturbing his neighbors by questioning anyone's judgment. But it was also a time when if a fellow doubted this was God's own country, he most likely would invite fiery antagonism and might get a punch on the nose which would teach him to express an opinion in a proper manner. Nobody, however, questioned the right of another to speak his piece, particularly as regards some foreign enemy.

I do not question Professor Fox's wisdom that it is preferable not to discuss public questions and to be dumb in order to avoid giving offense. Dear Abby

You've Set Your Record!

Dear Abby: I wasn't educated here so please correct my English if I don't express myself too good.

I don't know a thing about baseball and I am not interested in the game, but I have a nut at home for a husband. Since Mr. Maris hit 61 home runs, all I hear about is the record he set. I am fed up with this nonsense.

Let me tell you that I also set a record. In two years I gave birth to SIX children. The first time I had three boys, and the second time, I had three girls. And, believe me, that is a record I never heard of before. I would like to see Mr. Roger Maris or any other baseball player tie a record like that. Please, Abby, remind my husband that I also set a record and I am not in the Hall of Fame.

SIX OUT OF TWO

Dear Abby: I became acquainted with a man through my work. He told me he wasn't married. He is my type of guy and I could get very serious about him, but something bothers me. I have called him up numerous times at his apartment, and a woman has answered the phone.

He has told me it was his "sister" or a "cousin" or a neighbor. But I am sure it is the same woman every time. How can I find out for sure whether he is married or living with someone?

NEEDS HELP
Dear Needs: Don't get palsy with a man whose marital status is hazy. If a woman has answered the telephone "numerous times," the chances are she belongs there.

Dear Abby: I am 23, well-behaved and live at home. I give my mother half my pay check in return for room, board and laundry service—which is all right with me.

My problem is that I am treated as though I were still 16. I could move out and share an apartment with another girl, but I know my parents can use the money so I have continued to live at home.

When I come home from a date, the minute the car pulls up, my mother starts flashing the porch light off and on. It is very embarrassing for a girl my age. Have you any suggestions? Lightning Bug's Daughter

Dear Daughter: Your mother's signaling is childish. Tell her, respectfully, that you have seen the light and if she doesn't stop embarrassing you in this manner you will move out.

bled: Do unto others. If YOU had a 15-year-old daughter who behaved that way, wouldn't you want to know?

Everybody's got a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of this paper.

They were identified as R. S. Oiserman, A. G. Kaplun and S. R. Shapiro. Six alleged accomplices got prison terms ranging from 5 to 12 years. All allegedly pleaded guilty to speculation in gold, foreign currency and valuables.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The Christmas shopping season opens in earnest today, and if a certain weariness, a sort of "I can't get the Christmas spirit" fatigue makes it an effort to get going, consider a suggestion that would guarantee you an entirely different kind of Christmas and at the same time might provide an answer to three common current complaints:

Christmas is so commercialized, I miss the personal touch even in organized giving. If only there was something an individual could do about the international situation except debate fall-out shelters. When children get married parents have to share them on holidays so your's won't be home this Christmas.

Came across one solution quite accidentally, paddling around in Friday's rain on errands for the party Nan had planned for "the gang" with whom she'd survived measles, kindergarten, birthday parties, slumber parties, school, college and blossoming careers. I bumped into Mrs. George Levin.

She was bubbling with excitement of their own exciting guests, a 23-year-old graduate student from Vienna, to whom they were trying to give a typical American Thanksgiving. Since nothing could be more typically American or more varied in their careers and interests than the crew coming to our house, especially augmented by husbands, pictures of babies, fiancées and houseguests, I invited him to join us.

And a delightful addition Otto Heinmann made, too. His stiff little bow of formal greeting added a certain continental distinction to the group which not too long ago always ended up sitting on the floor. His English was excellent, he is majoring in business administration, and could join in the discussion on almost anything.

The Levins acquired him sort of by accident, too. The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church had arranged the holiday visit for two foreign students living at International House in New York, and paid their transportation. One of them, Miss Dorcen Cleland of London, was the guest of the Arthur Jensen's in Cherry Valley and Otto of the Levins.

Well, there you have it: personal sharing with somebody you don't already owe something to; a chance to add to international understanding on the level where we show off our talents best, the American

Kimmel-Teleska Wedding Saturday At St. Ann's

Canadensis — St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church was the scene Saturday for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Ann Teleska, daughter of Mrs. Mary Teleska, Scranton to Ronald Arlin Kimmel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlin Kimmel, McKeesburg.

Rev. William Cusick performed the 11 a.m. ceremony before the altar decorated with vases of white chrysanthemums. Bows marked the family pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, chose a floor-length gown of lined taffeta which featured a bateau neckline framed by appliques of sequin-embroidered Alencon lace. The elongated bodice accented the bouffant skirt with front fullness and appliques in the back fell to a chapel train. He-shoulder-length veil of hand-rolled illusion cascaded from an orange blossom diadem. White mums, yellow fugi mums, brown pompons and green ivy were arranged in the cascade bridal bouquet. A single pearl pendant necklace, gift of the home; and fascinating company for Christmas!

Mrs. Jensen said the Guild arranged it through Mrs. Osman, social director at International House, 500 Riverside Drive, in case you're interested. Me? Hey, wait 'till I return the empty bottles and eat up leftover canapés first! Oh yes — and the plumber gets here!

bridegroom, completed her attire.

Mrs. Joan Grescovic, Scranton, was matron of honor. Her hesitation length gown of cobalt blue featured a shallow scoop neckline, draped bodice and brief sleeves. The skirt was draped in front with fullness in the back. A rhinestone clip held her cobalt blue face veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white mums and rust pompons with green ivy.

Miss Jemiel Shiner, Blakeslee and Evelyn Hunsinger, Hazleton, as bridesmaids, wore cobalt blue gowns in the same fashion as the matron of honor. Their bouquets were cascade arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums with rust pompons and green ivy.

Miss Lois Kimmel, McKeesburg, sister of the bridegroom, served as flower girl. Her white nylon organza dress was washed in gold. A bouquet of brown pompons and matching headpiece completed the costume.

Edward Grescovic, Scranton, acted as best man. Barry Jones, McKeesburg and Raymond Kropp, Mountainhome, were ushers.

Collecting Gifts For Mentally Ill

Holidays are a time when the ties of friends and families grow tighter, but it is also a time when loneliness is harder to bear. Among those most frequently forgotten are the mentally ill. This year again, the Monroe County Council of United Church Women, in cooperation with the Monroe County Mental Health Assn., is making sure that hundreds of patients will have at least one gift.

Members and individuals have selected and gift-wrapped presents in Christmas stockings to be distributed at Allentown State Hospital. Mrs. Claude Leister, president of the Church Council; Mrs. Elwood Grant and Mrs. Nathan Meyer, co-chairmen of the collecting committee, with Mrs. James Cummings, past president of the Mental Health Assn., will make the trip to Allentown on Dec. 4 to deliver the gifts.

While they are there, they will tour the hospital and its facilities.

Individuals who have not given through church groups and who may wish to add their gifts may take them to the office of the Mental Health Assn., 618 Main St., Stroudsburg up until 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 30.

Gifts must be wrapped and marked if for a man or woman. Suggested articles for men include shaving cream, lotion, tobacco and cigarettes; for women cosmetics, deodorants, cologne, combs, brushes and costume jewelry.

Jane Deihl, who has moved into a lovely new home not far from Glen Brook, took time from her chores in our Domestic department to show-me all the novelty gift sets that have arrived just in time for Christmas. Let's see if I can remember some of them, and group them according to price:

At 1.99: a box containing three fingertip towels with embroidered French poodles as trim . . . another containing two fingertip towels of Jacquard print with Luxur trim and a container of tiny bath soaps in varied colors . . . (both sets come in other patterns and colors, Jane says) . . . a long bread basket packed with two gay terry kitchen towels . . . a brass-plated napkin or letter holder with two decorative terry kitchen towels in either rooster or strawberry pattern . . . and a cute white pottery planter in the form of a turtle, packed with two fringed terry guest towels.

At 2.99: a collection of 6 day-of-the-week printed kitchen towels (What!—"never on Sunday"? . . . an amusing set consisting of a chipmunk salt and pepper duo, four hand woven bamboo-wisp place mats, and four pretty cloth napkins . . . a lacquered serving dish in Oriental motif with four fringed cotton and rayon napkins . . . a set designed for a "couple" coffee lovers—two pottery mugs, two place mats of woven black and white check, and two bright red napkins.

At 3.99: a Victory Gift consisting of four place mats, in either a green or black check with white, four napkins in solid green or bright red, and a 3-way trivet. The latter has a center of tile with hand-painted design (fruit, I believe) set in a scalloped edge of brass wire. It may be used as a trivet; it can be folded to form a serving basket, or it may be hung plaque-wise on the wall . . . cherrywood salt shaker and pepper mill in fruitwood finish on a wooden stand, with two terry towels . . . and a fruitwood wheel barrow packed with three fringed bathroom towels.

At 4.98: one woven hostess tray (a really lovely thing) packed with two guest towels and two face towels. These come in a variety of colors.

And, at 5.99: from Royal Terry's line of California Ware a stunning imported-cherrywood hostess tray with a colorful cutting tile and fruit knife at the center, and four Indianhead napkins in a print combining orange and brown tones . . . a brass magazine rack containing one bath towel, two fringed towels, and two wash cloths . . . and a very Christmasy looking package containing two jiffy-dry towels, one terry apron, a terry toaster cover, and matching oven mitt, in the famous Bucilla heart-and-flower design. This comes in pink also.

Packaged bathroom sets are available priced from 2.99 to 8.98, and they're all just terry-bly nice. Do see them!

Puts 'Tropic' On Temporary Ban

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A judge yesterday temporarily banned a book dealer from selling Henry Miller's controversial "Tropic of Cancer."

Judge Vincent A. Carroll, acting on a request of the district attorney's office, read the book, and declared Tuesday in issuing a preliminary injunction, "The book is literary smut, and I dignify it when I say 'literary.'"

Carroll will hold a hearing Dec. 13 on the district attorney's plea for a permanent injunction.

The publisher of the book, Grove Press, sought a delay in Tuesday's hearing so it could have counsel present. Carroll denied the request.

Astronaut In Orbit In 1961

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE Va. (AP)—The United States still plans to put an astronaut in orbit during 1961, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday.

The spokesman at the manned-spacecraft center (formerly space task group) here said "as the schedule now stands, NASA still plans to have a manned orbital shot in 1961."

"There's no denying that achieving this will be difficult," the spokesman added, "and there's a strong possibility that the attempt may come in early 1962."

Shirk, Dickl On NAIA Soccer Tourney Team

ESSC Tops Tabor Senators After Him

To Finish In 3rd Hamlin Expected To Be 1st Picked In Baseball Draft

EAST STROUDSBURG State College placed two players on the all-tournament team of the NAIA soccer championships which ended Saturday at Lock Haven.

Harry Shirk, left halfback and center forward Karl Dickl were picked for the first team from the Warriors.

East Stroudsburg, which was beaten 4-3 by Howard University of Washington, D.C. in Friday's opening round, bounced back Saturday morning with a 2-1 win over Tabor College of Kansas, for third place.

Howard won the national championship, defeating Newark

College of Engineering 2-1 on a goal in the final 12 seconds by Cecil Durham. Newark was the defending co-champion.

Despite the close score, East Stroudsburg after spotting Tabor a 1-0 lead, had little trouble with the Kansas team.

Close In Score
The Warriors got off 36 shots, while Tabor had only 12. East Stroudsburg also attempted 11 corner kicks. Tabor had none.

Tom Panba put Tabor in front 1-0 with 10:10 gone in the first period. It wasn't until 17:19 of the second period that the Warriors tied the score. The deadlock goal was scored by Allen Oberholzer, who scored three of East Stroudsburg's five tournament goals.

The Warriors kept firing at the Tabor goal but it wasn't until late in the third period that they connected again.

The winning score was provided by Shirk on a penalty goal.

The score was set-up when Dickl had an open shot in front of Tabor net but was upended before he could get the shot off. Under soccer rules, any player may attempt a penalty kick, similar to the old basketball free throw rule. Shirk got the assignment and the junior co-captain connected.

Muddy Field
The two-day tournament was played on a field that was so muddy that a plastic-covered ball was used to prevent the ball from becoming water-logged.

It was the first trip to the national tournament for the Warriors, who have a strong chance of repeating next year. Only one starter, left halfback Claus Graef will be lost through graduation. Coach John Eiler will lose four reserves, Ken Maciak, John Makevick, Tom Barrow and Mike Salerno.

The Warriors also have several fine freshmen, headed by goalie John Petronis from Philadelphia, who was an all-Philadelphia soccer and baseball performer last year.

Only one team was selected for all-tournament honors. All-star certificates were presented to the 11 players by James Egli, chairman of the NAIA soccer committee and Slippery Rock State College soccer coach. Egli is an East Stroudsburg State graduate.

Sonny Hurls 5 Touchdowns; Game With N. Y. May Decide

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen tossed five touchdown passes, including three to halfback Tommy McDonald, as the Philadelphia Eagles walloped the Dallas Cowboys 35-13 Sunday to remain in the thick of the fight for the Eastern Division title of the National Football League.

The Eagles, rebounding from successive humiliating defeats at the hands of New York and Cleveland, spotted the Cowboys a 3-0 first period lead and then laid it on the Texas pros for the second time this season.

All Bombs
In addition to scoring passes of 46, 40 and 27 yards to McDonald, Jurgensen threw a 40-yard touchdown to Pete Retzlaff and collaborated with Ted Dean on a 60 yard trip to the end zone.

Jurgensen completed 16 of 23 passes for 351 yards. McDonald caught five for 131 yards and his three TDs.

Dallas, beaten 43-7 by the Eagles in Texas, started off in high gear, moving from its 22 to the Philadelphia 35. When the drive

Dallas took the second half kickoff to its 24 and marched in 12 plays to the Eagles' 13. Unable to gain, Bielski booted a field goal from the 32. Philadelphia, however, took the ensuing kickoff and in eight plays paraded 89 yards for a touchdown, scored on a 27-yard pitch from Jurgensen to McDonald. Dallas in the fourth quarter completed the day's scoring on a 21 yard TD aerial from quarterback Eddie LeBaron to Amos Marsh. LeBaron completed 22 of 43 passes for 266 yards.

The defending champions played Pittsburgh next week before a crucial meeting in Philadelphia with the Giants.

After being held to a 14-14 deadlock at the half, the Giants rode veteran Y. A. Tittle's pitching arm to victory, although all their touchdowns came on the ground.

The price for drafted veterans is $25,000. First-year players are available for $12,000 each.

After the 18 clubs have finished the two new teams of the National League — New York Mets and Houston Colts — each can pick two men at $25,000 each. Both managers, Casey Stengel of the Mets and Harry Craft of the Colts, are expected to take the maximum.

Drafted 23
Last year the majors drafted 23 players for $497,000 and the minors took 36 more for $327,000.

Later in the week the minors will vote on an amendment that will reinstate a version of the payment of six figure bonuses to undrafted players.

In order to avoid losing a talented bonus player in the draft, most clubs advance these players to the parent big league roster before the draft period. The proposed change would restrict movement of such new talents and also would lower the draft price from $12,000 to $8,000 for a first-year player.

Colts' Line
Sparkles In
27-6 Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baltimore's tough line, led by Gino Marchetti and Ordell Braese, throttled Washington's attack Sunday as the Colts whipped the Redskins 27 to 6 in a National Football League game.

It was the first time this season the Colts have won two in a row and was their sixth victory against five losses.

The Redskins now have gone 21 games without a victory and have 10 losses and a tie to show for this season.

The colt linemen harassed rookie Washington quarterback Norman Snead unmercifully, helping to set up three interceptions by Gary Glick, who was released by the Redskins earlier this season.

With Johnny Unitas and Lenny Moore sparkling, the Colts moved 62 yards in four plays for a touchdown the first time they had the ball.

The Redskins threatened only once in the first half, following one of Jim Kerr's three pass interceptions. However, Andy Nelson blocked John Aveni's field goal attempt from the 45.

Baltimore limited Washington to a single first down in the first half.

Baltimore 14 3 7 3-27
Washington 0 0 6 0-6

Rugers closed out the first all-winning season in its 93-year football history, swamping Ivy League co-champion Columbia 32-19. Harvard gained a share of the Ivy championship by defeating Yale 27-0.

And Preacher Pilot of New Mexico State rambled big in a 54-8 rout of Hardin-Simmons, now loser of 22 straight.

stalled, Dick Bielski booted a 42-yard field goal.

Before the first quarter ended the Eagles led 14-3. Jurgensen flipped a swing pass to Dean who shook off a tackler at the line of scrimmage and behind a crushing block by tackle Jim McCusker juked 60 yards for a TD. Bobby Walston kicked the first of his five conversions. Then, Don Burroughs intercepted a Dallas pass, the first Eagles interception in five games, returning it to the Philadelphia 46.

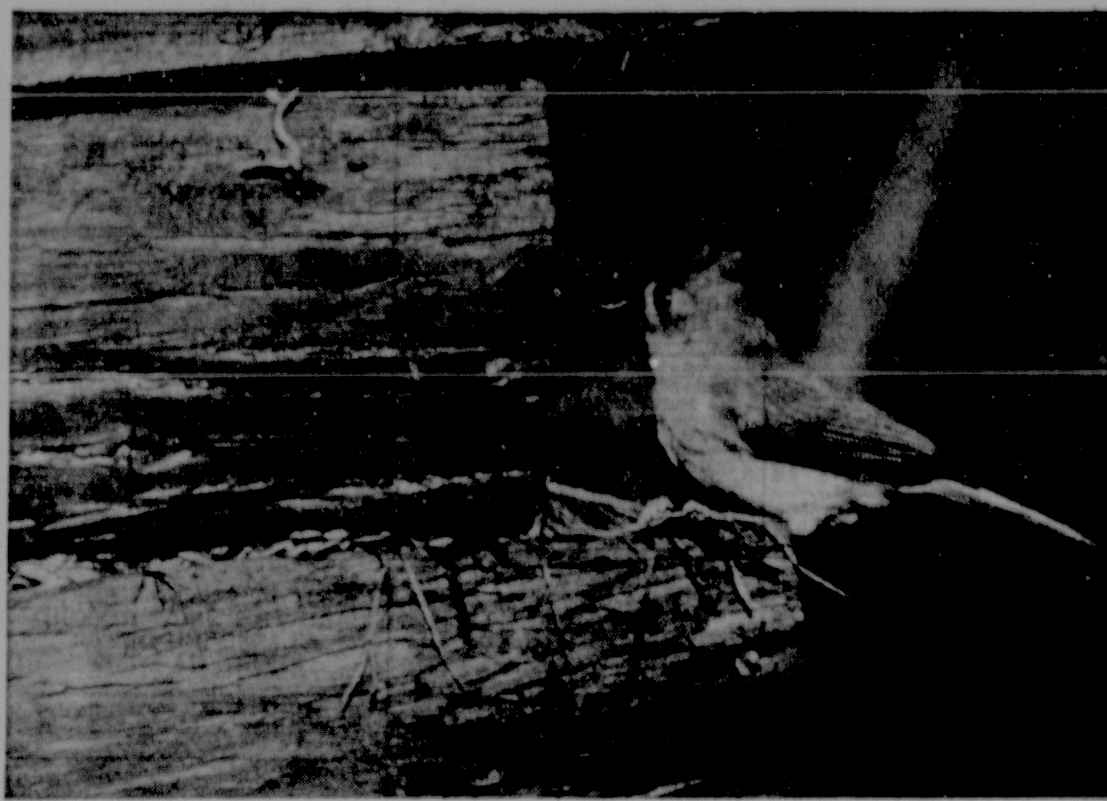

On second down, Jurgensen hit Retzlaff at the nine and the fleet end romped to a TD.

Builds Lead
Philadelphia increased its lead to 28-3 at halftime, as Jurgensen passed to McDonald for a 46 yard score after end Leo Sugar picked up a Dallas fumble and returned it to the Eagles 47. When the Eagles defense, led by the irreplaceable Chuck Bednarik, starting on defense for the first time this season, stopped the Cowboys cold, Jurgensen directed a seven-play, 77 yard advance climaxed by his 40 yards touchdown pass to McDonald.

Dallas took the second half kickoff to its 24 and marched in 12 plays to the Eagles' 13. Unable to gain, Bielski booted a field goal from the 32. Philadelphia, however, took the ensuing kickoff and in eight plays paraded 89 yards for a touchdown, scored on a 27-yard pitch from Jurgensen to McDonald. Scranton Demo Leaders To Ask For A Recheck

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Democratic leaders in the city say they will ask the Lackawanna County board of elections Monday to open the machines for a recheck of the Nov. 7 voting. The city has 102 precincts.

Announcement of this came Saturday after a conference in Mayor James T. Hanlon's office. Hanlon, a Democrat, running for his fifth term in a row, trails Republican William T. Schmidt, by 719 votes. All ballots have been counted.

The mayor's cabinet and a group of Democratic lawyers took part in the conference.

William P. Farrell, chairman of the lawyers' committee, said the decision to petition for a recount was prompted primarily by the closeness of the contest between Jerome Parker, president of the city council, and the apparent Republican victor for a council seat, John W. McNamara. Parker lags by 43 votes in complete returns. Farrell said while this vote is being checked, the ballots for mayor also will be re-examined.

A Big Question Is: 'What Will Viet Congo Do Next?'

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — There is a popular guessing game in Saigon called, "What will the Viet Congo do next?"

No prizes are awarded for correct answers, but everyone realizes that enough wrong answers may mean a Communist sweep in Southeast Asia, or even the beginning of World War III.

The analysts are of two types—pessimists and optimists, with more in the pessimist camp. The pessimists see the situation as strikingly similar to the closing years of the Indochina war, in which the French went down in defeat before Viet Minh forces. Over a nine-year period, French forces in Indochina sustained about 90,000 casualties and were bled dry by the continuing Communist guerrilla tactics.

In 1954, the Communists got to the point where a direct frontal assault was feasible, and mounted a siege of the French fortress at Dien Bien Phu. After 55 days, the French stronghold was annihilated and the war was over. Many of the pessimists feel another Dien Bien Phu may be only a year or two away.

The optimists take the position that South Viet Nam can be held if two conditions are met. The first is U.S. patience to continue the fight as long as necessary, perhaps decades.

The second is the institution of major reforms in the South Viet Nam administration, with emphasis on improving living standards and closer identity of the government with the people.

In vogue in Saigon is a book published in Hanoi this year by the commander of Communist North Viet Nam's military forces, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap. Giap is believed to be calling the signals for Viet Cong activity in the south. His book "People's War, People's Army" is regarded by some as a reliable guide to future Red tactics.

In describing the course of the Indochina war, Giap divided the Communist campaign into three phases: guerrilla activity, consolidation into organized units and final direct offensive. Observers feel the situation in South Viet Nam now probably is in the second phase.

Giap traces the history of the long Indochina campaign, describing how military operations centered in the Red River Delta for a time, and how his forces worked in cooperation with the Pathet Lao, the Laotian Communist army. He lays particular emphasis on the propaganda and land reform roles of his men.

Above all, he stresses patience. For those who feel Giap's book is a signpost for the present war, indications are that no massive Red assault is in the immediate offing, but rather a continuation of the war of attrition.

Others believe large-scale entry of U.S. forces would bring about a change in Communist strategy, including possible intervention by Communist China and the Soviet Union.

What Is a

PLIOHIPPIUS?

A pliohippus is an extinct mammal, the ancestor of the modern horse.

The science of paleontology, the study of ancient life on the globe, is constantly revealing facts pertinent to a better understanding of life on the earth today. Yet many potential scientists may never pursue this subject because they may never go to college. Already many colleges are overcrowded and in 10 years applications will double. We will need more and better college laboratories and thousands more of the highest quality professors.

Annual 'Toys For Tots' Drive Begun In County

THE UNITED States Marine Corps Reserve "Toys For Tots" drive was officially started yesterday with the placing of drums at various locations in the county.

Last year the local men in the battalion collected more than 10,000 toys. The toys are collected and turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

Collection barrels will be located in the post offices in Stroudsburg, and Mountainhome. There will also be barrels located in the lobby of the Famous Store in East Stroudsburg, Giant Market and A&P in the Stroud Union Shopping Center.

In addition to the barrels, several of the elementary schools in the area will be contacted and will allow the children to bring new or useable toys to school. These toys will be collected and donated to the Salvation Army.

Lt. Col. Malcolm J. Law, commanding officer, Third Motor Transport Battalion, USMCR, Wyoming, has named S/Sgt. James D. Shafer as the Non-Commissioned Officer in charge of the Monroe County Drive.

Anyone desiring more information should call Sgt. Shafer at Wy 1-4788 or the George N Kemp Post 343, American Legion, East Stroudsburg, at HA 1-8170.

For articles too large to deposit in the barrels please contact the Salvation Army at HA 1-3050 during their working day and arrangements will be made to pick up the article at your home.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

BETWEEN A WINDOW SIGN AND A WINDOW DISPLAY

Sure the sign tells 'em what's for sale inside. But the display . . . that shows the customers what's being sold, and how to use it. And that's the difference! The sign informs . . . the display sells. The same is very often true when you compare a directory listing of your business and a business-building ad in The Daily Record Classified section. The listing tells the people you're there . . . but the ad shows them that you have what they want today. It's immediate, timely, stimulating. When you want the customers to come inside and buy . . . show them with a Want Ad. Want Ads make the profitable difference!

Annual Hobby Show Starts At Blue Valley This Evening

HOBBIES play an important role in the lives of all. What could be more rewarding than sharing our hobbies with others? This will be done at the second annual Business, Antique, and Hobby Show to be presented at the Blue Valley Farm Show Building on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings.

If one has an interest in Antique collecting, this could be enlightened by visiting the booths of Frank Smith, Stroudsburg, and Mary Kressley, Nazareth.

Leather work featuring fine tooling will be displayed by Edmund Gress.

Miss Olive Blake has a beautiful collection of spoons she has procured through the years.

Willard Pysker will show his collection which stems from his Audubon interest in bird life.

Mrs. Donald Fehr has spent many pleasant hours along the Delaware River Valley collecting Indian relics which she will

Mrs. W. P. Bray will have her beautiful paintings at the show. She will also demonstrate her artistic skill in an actual painting which she hopes to complete at the show.

If music fulfills your leisure hours, you will enjoy the organ music provided by the Melody Music House, Nazareth and the concerts by the Bangor High School Band at 8:00 Monday and the Plus X High School Band at 7:30 Tuesday.

The show is presented by the Bangor Business and Professional Women's Club. The entire proceeds will go to the Visiting Nurse.
